

The Omicron Kappa Upsilon Dental Honor Society was organized in 1914 by faculty at Northwestern University Dental School. The purpose of the Honor Society is to encourage and develop a spirit of excellence among dental students. The Society recognizes dental students, faculty, and others who distinguish themselves by achieving a high level of scholarship. In addition to outstanding academic achievement, criteria for election to membership in Omicron Kappa Upsilon include exemplary traits of character and ethics. Selection criteria also include potential for future professional growth and attainments. They may be the leaders in the dental profession in the future.
